About VCU Pipeline Programs

It’s never too early to jump-start an interest in health care careers. VCU’s Division for Health Sciences Diversity (DHSD) created these educational pipeline opportunities to expose students to health careers and information that sets them on the right academic path. While each program has its own distinct goals and benefits, all Pipeline programs aim to:

- Educate and excite students about health care careers
- Provide resources to strengthen student’s skills
- Ensure students make informed decisions about pursuing health care careers
